

Release notes version 4.15.22

Improvement to Sentinel libraries

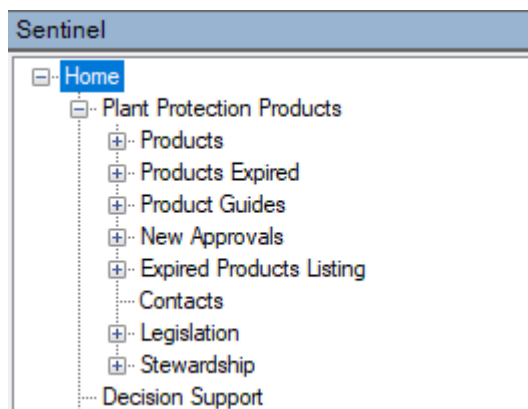

This update to Gatekeeper brings a number of improvements to the Sentinel Active library, which build on the update in version 4.15.18 which allowed users to filter product lists by whether plant protection products were expired or extant.

The Sentinel module of Gatekeeper contains a wealth of information on plant protection products, as well as wider agronomic decision support information. As a reminder, the information available to users in Sentinel module includes:

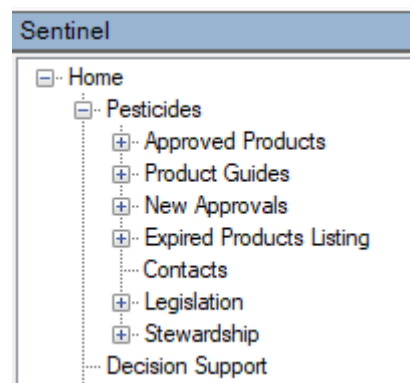

- Product details, and for Sentinel Active users, approval information
- Recommended variety lists
- Crop nutrition information
- ‘What’s in your crop?’ section, including an extensive photo library.

Library sorting

The library view of the main Sentinel page, which allows users to navigate and view product information, has been updated to separate current and expired plant protection products:

Improved tree view organisation

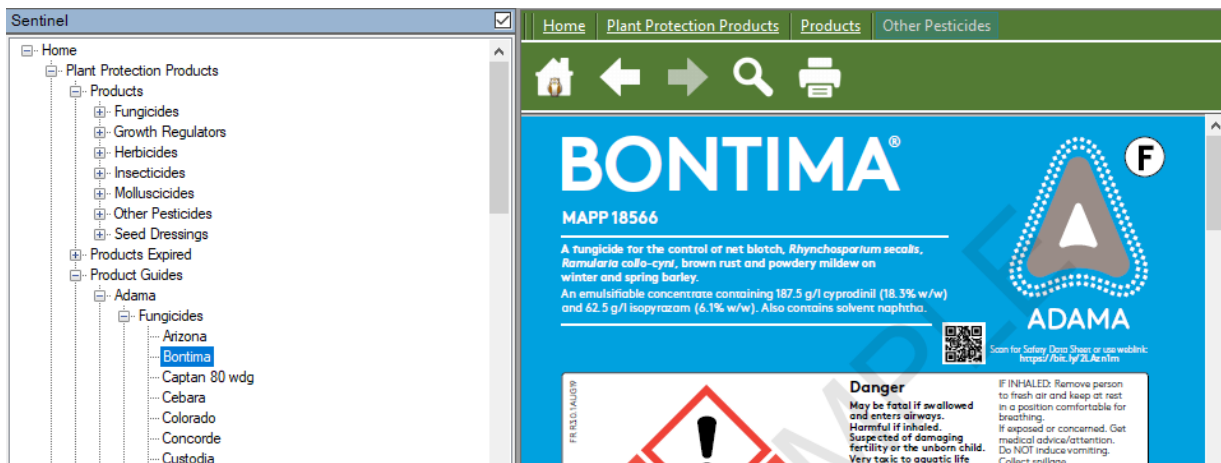

Previous tree view

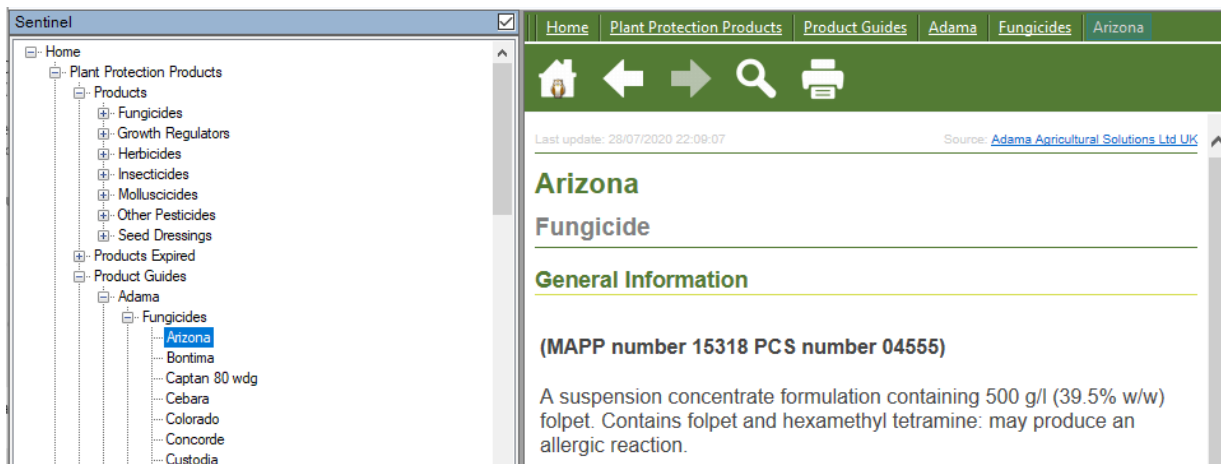

As a result, when navigating any of the sections, Sentinel Active users have a clearer distinction of whether products are currently approved or expired.

Label views

The 'Product Guides' section of the Sentinel library has been updated so that it can host manufacturer PDF versions of product labels. This replaces the previous text-based presentation.

Improved label view

Old-style label view

Not all product guides have been updated yet, so some will still appear in the old-style label view. However, the Sentinel team will continue to update labels in collaboration with manufacturers.

Topic tagging

This new label display continues to support topic tagging and searching within Sentinel. This functionality allows users to search Sentinel by topic as well as by product name, and tagged products will be returned in search results, as shown below.
